

Your proposal to replace N.J.'s more stringent protection under the state legislation with your regulation to allow lesser protections is both hypocritical and a sop to the corporate world that you should be regulating.

It is hypocritical in that it overrides the concept of federalism when it suits your need and this is obviously one of those moments when you can't mention states' rights.

The title of the Act should be modified to read the "The Telemarketers Protection Act" because it will remove protections we in N.J. already enjoy.
